The Invisible Soldiers: How America Outsourced our Security by Ann Hagedorn

Thirty years ago, before there were private military and security companies (PMSCs), there were mercenaries. Now, the PMSCs are a bona-fide industry; an indispensable part of American foreign and military policy. PMSCs assist U.S. forces in combat operations and replace them after the military withdraws from combat zones; they guard embassies; play key roles in U.S. counter-terrorism strategies; and Homeland Security depends on them. Their services include maritime security, police training, drone operations, cyber security, and intelligence analysis (as Edward Snowden has famously revealed). When did this happen? The turning point came when the U.S. found itself in a prolonged war with Iraq, but without adequate forces, The Bush Administration turned to the PMSCs to fill the gap. Private contractors eventually exceeded troops.

Ann Hagedorn profiles members of Congress who recognize the dangers of dependence on PMSCs, but have been unable to limit them. She reveals the key figure in the evolution of the industry. She introduces us to a US Army general who studies new developments, and worries about PMSCs potentially fighting American troops. The Invisible Soldiers will inspire a national dialogue.

The People’s House by David Pepper

Discover why the Wall Street Journal crowned “The People’s House” the “sleeper for political thriller of the year,” or why a former Governor said she almost missed her connecting flight because she could not put it down.

Political reporter Jack Sharpe is at the tail end of a disappointing career; jaded about politics and stung by hard knocks. After an odd election result in the Ohio congressional district, Sharpe stumbles across voting irregularities that spur him to dig deeper. The story takes him far beyond his corner of Ohio as he discovers an international plot - one that strikes at the heart of American democracy. His reporting leads to a showdown with a philandering Congressman and Presidential contender, and a deadly Russian mogul. In order to save himself, Sharpe must rekindle his old fire to navigate a journey through danger, betrayal, and atonement. And yes, it was all written before eerily similar events occurred in a recent election.

Road Scholar Program

Presented by Vicki Lyden

Date & Time: Tuesday, May 30, 1 p.m. – 3 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus, 8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
Explore the world through the educational lifelong learning programs planned by Road Scholar, (formerly known as Elderhostel. Road Scholar), a not-for-profit organization that offers 5,500 educational programs in all 50 states and abroad in 150 foreign countries. Founded in 1975, Road Scholar offers a wide range of program categories such as Multigenerational, Service Learning, and Adventures Afloat, while incorporating experiential learning settings for participants, whether traveling solo or in couples or groups. The variety of Road Scholar offerings makes the travel and learning possibilities truly impressive and a wonderful value.

The instructor will share the above presentation during the first hour, followed by select LLI members sharing their Road Scholar encounters.

Instructor Bio:
Vicki Lyden, a second generation Road Scholar traveler, taught for 37 years as a middle and high school teacher in central Ohio. Since retirement, she has joined Road Scholar adventure programs throughout the U.S. and internationally. The variety of programs she has experienced span multiple continents and programs; from service-centered to Adventures Afloat, and traveling with friends and family, or flying solo.

Two Centuries of Business: Urban & Environmental Changes in Columbus, Ohio

Presented by Mansel Blackford

Date & Time: Wednesday, May 31, 10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus, 8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
Experience new and exciting ways of looking at Columbus, Ohio; from its founding in 1812 to the near present day. Learn about how and why economic, social, and spatial changes took place in the capital city and about the men and women who fashioned them. Special emphasis will be placed on land and water policies and development realities on the ground in the shaping of this modern Midwestern city. Lecture, discussion, and small-group activities will occur within this class.

Instructor Bio:
Mansel Blackford is a professor emeritus at The Ohio State University, where he taught history for 40 years. The author or co-author of 13 books, he most recently published Columbus, Ohio: Two Centuries of Business and Environmental Change.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
This introductory iPad class will familiarize participants with basic use of the iPad. These four sessions will explore the use of the most critical apps to understanding the iPad: App Store, Contacts, Mail, and Safari. We will also discuss tech terms and vocabulary (i.e.
Apple ID, Siri) and review the physical buttons/features of the iPad; allowing additional time for questions. Join us for this informative series!

Instructor Bio:
Gregg Montgomery works as a technology consultant in the Columbus area. A former Apple retail store employee, Gregg now works independently operating his own business. He consults with schools and businesses, but spends most of his time working with older adults, teaching classes or offering one-on-one training and troubleshooting related to Apple products. Gregg has a Bachelors degree in Fine Art from Cleveland State University, and a Masters degree in Art Education from The Ohio State University. Gregg is passionate about helping people get the most out of their technology, and he is highly favored with the Lifelong Learning Institute!

Historic Franklinton & Cemetery Bus Tour

Presented by Rosie Frazier

Date & Time: Monday, June 12, 9 a.m.-1:30 p.m. (bring packed lunch)

*Additional Fee required: $24 Per person (bus fee)

NOTE: Only the first 24 participants to register and pay may be accepted, as the bus capacity is 24, and will be filled on a first-come-first-served basis. (If we exceed capacity, we will consider scheduling a second tour scheduled at a later date.)

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus, 8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

Bus will pick up attendees at the COTC Pataskala campus promptly at 9:00 a.m. and will return to COTC by 1:30 p.m.

About the Course:
In response to requests by LLI members for a bus tour of the Historic Franklinton area and the Franklinton and Greenlawn Cemeteries, we have prepared an enriching adventure. Rosie Frazier will be discussing the significance of areas, buildings and the individuals who settled in the Ohio Territory, and establishing Franklinton and Columbus. As we visit Franklinton, we will learn about the early cemetery, the Sullivants, the Harrison House and the old log Post Office. Then, travel to Greenlawn, where you will visit the Chapel and see the tombs of famous Ohioans such as Governor Rhodes and Herbert Penny. (This will be our rest stop). Finally, we will travel through the cemetery to hear about famous people, murders, Presidents’ relatives, authors, early settlers, former slaves and many more.

Instructor Bio:
Rosie Frazier loves to share her knowledge of history by bringing the past to life in the present. You may encounter her as Mother Jones, Rosie the Riveter, or a lace maker. She can also be found travelling through Ohio advocating for women’s voting rights.

Rosie serves on the Board of Trustees of the Franklinton Historic Society, and is an active member of Columbus, Turo Township, Worthington, and Pike County Historical Societies. As the Education Specialist of the Central Ohio Underground Railroad Study Group, she presents programs in schools and for adult learners.

She holds a degree in Library Science from Ohio Dominican. Rosie is a member of the Lifelong Learning Institute’s Steering and Search Committees.

A program explores nature and the great outdoors.
Presented by Joe Tebben

Date & Time: Friday, June 16
10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Location: LCAP, Heritage Hall
1058 E Main St, Newark, OH

Directions: (From Columbus) Take OH-161 E to OH-16 E in Newark; continuing to Dayton Rd. Turn right at the light, and right again at Matesich Distributing. LCAP is on the right in the former Millers Essenplaz.

About the Course:
His death certificate bluntly records the cause of death as “strangulation from being hanged by mob.” Seventeen-year-old Carl Etherington was lynched near the southeast corner of the Licking County Courthouse Square on July 8, 1910. He was one of twenty agents hired and deputized to enforce the Rose County local option law, a county-wide ban on the sale of liquor approved by a narrow majority of Licking County voters. Nearly 5,000 Newark residents witnessed this atrocity. Eighteen months later, in a December 15, 1911, editorial entitled “Newark’s Atonement,” the Cleveland Plain Dealer commended the city of Newark for the expiation it had made for the brutal murder of Carl Etherington. Following this outbreak of “temporary insanity,” The Plain Dealer noted, the city had brought to justice sixteen of the seventeen men indicted for this lynching. This atonement, the newspaper concluded, “should be called to the attention of the nation.” And so, 107 years later, we revisit the events that occurred on Newark’s darkest day.

Instructor Bio:
Joseph R. Tebben is a retired professor of classics. He has degrees from Duquesne University, the University of Pittsburgh, and The Ohio State University. He is a long-time resident of Newark, Ohio, and is a trustee of the Licking County Historical Society. He is the author of The Old Home: Louis Sullivan’s Newark Bank which was published in 2014.

In the Heat of the Summer:
The New York Riots of 1964 and the Politics of Law and Order; Then and Now

Presented by Michael Flamm

Date & Time: Monday, June 19
10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
In July 1964, peaceful protests and violent actions erupted in New York, as law and order emerged in national politics, and the freedom struggle reached a crossroads. In Harlem, the symbolic and historic heart of black America, the racial unrest signaled the arrival of the first “long, hot summer” of the 1960’s. It also sent shock waves across the country and cast a shadow over the Presidential race between Republican Barry Goldwater and Democrat Lyndon Johnson. The following year, the War on Crime was set in motion, with fateful implications for the prison and policing debates of today.

Instructor Bio:
Michael Flamm is professor of modern U.S. history at Ohio Wesleyan University, where he has received several teaching awards. As a Fulbright Scholar and Senior Specialist, he has also taught at San Andrés University in Buenos Aires. In addition, Professor Flamm has served as a faculty consultant to the National Endowment for the Humanities, the College Board, and the National Academy of Sciences. He is the author or co-author of numerous articles and five books, including In the Heat of the Summer (2017) and Law and Order (2005).
Not Your Grandmother’s Library

Presented by Babette Wofter & Doug Stout

Date & Time: Thursday, June 22
10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
It’s not your grandmother’s library anymore! Learn about the many programs and services offered by the Licking County Library. Unique offerings include everything from ukuleles, seed packets, and video games, to local museum passes and a history project honoring local veterans. Library staff will be on hand to tell their stories and provide a tour and demonstration of their new 24-hour Broad Street Library location...a totally automated library, and one of only ten of its kind in the United States (located on the COTC Pataskala campus).

Instructors Bio’s:
Babette Wofter has been working in libraries in central Ohio for over 28 years. A graduate of Kent State University and Ohio University, she served as a children's librarian for many years. This marks her 7th year as Director of the Licking County Library.

Doug Stout has worked for the Licking County Library his entire career, spanning over 28 years. Having first served in Branch Services, he is currently the Head of Circulation. His most treasured project is the “In the Company of Heroes” which he initiated in 2015, to honor local veterans by capturing their story through interviews, letters, photos and other mementos. This information is compiled and available on the library website, featuring over 1,000 veterans to date.

The Ohio State University in the Sixties

Presented by William Shkurti

Date & Time: Tuesday, June 27
10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
“The Ohio State University in the Sixties” explores how tensions built up over the years; why they converged when they did; and how they forever changed the University. Copies of the author’s book will be available for purchase and signing. (Cash or check accepted; no credit cards please.)

Instructor Bio:
William Shkurti was born and raised in Akron, Ohio. He entered Ohio State University as a freshman in the fall of 1964. He graduated in 1968 with a BA degree in Economics. He then served as an Army artillery officer in West Germany, Vietnam and Fort Meade, Maryland.

After completing his enlistment, Bill returned to Ohio State in 1972 to earn a Masters Degree. After graduation in 1974, he served in a number of positions for the State of Ohio, including State Budget director, 1985-1987. He then returned to Ohio State to be chief financial officer. He retired from that position in 2010, but is still involved with the university as an adjunct professor in the John Glenn School of Public Affairs. He and his wife, Renee, reside in Upper Arlington.

How women won the vote

Presented by
Susan M. Hartmann, Ph.D.

Date & Time:
Monday, Wednesday, & Friday,
July 10, 12, & 14
10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
Session 1: The Origins of Women’s Rights in Religion, Reform, and Abolition, 1848-1870
Session 2: Developing an Independent Movement and Winning the West, 1870-1914
Session 3: Winning a Constitutional Amendment, 1914-1920

This course will examine the 72-year struggle for women’s suffrage in the United States, and the campaign that introduced new strategies and practices into American politics. We will look at how the suffrage movement was related to and affected by such phenomena as religion, race, education, Constitutional law, prohibition, and war. We will discuss the obstacles suffragists faced and the strategies they used, including polite letters, lawsuits, street demonstrations, and serving time in jail. We will pay specific attention to developments in Ohio and also reference woman suffrage activities in other countries.

Instructor Bio:
Susan M. Hartmann majored in History at Washington University and earned her PhD in history at the University of Missouri. She taught History and Women’s Studies at The Ohio State University during the last 25 years of her academic career. She has published five books and several articles on such topics as the Truman administration, women and World War II, gender and politics, feminism and liberalism, women and religion, Eleanor Roosevelt, and Hillary Clinton’s 2008 Presidential candidacy. At Ohio State, she received the Exemplary Faculty Award from the College of Humanities and was named Arts and Humanities Distinguished Professor of History. She is a fellow of the Society of American Historians and has been a speaker for the U.S. State Department in Greece, Austria, Germany, Australia, New Zealand, and Nepal.

About the presenter:
Kevin Rouch, earned a BA in history at Indiana University and a law degree at Georgetown University. He began his law career as an associate attorney with the firm of Schottenstein, Zox and Dunn. He opened his own firm, Browning & Rouch, and continues to practice law part time. He also founded his own media company, Blue Twelve Media, LLC that specializes in community-based work. Kevin now has a full-time position as Director of the Drexel Theatre. (Given Kevin’s love of film, it was a natural and ideal fit.)

Feeding Wild Birds in America

Presented by Carolyn Wulfhorst, Ph.D.

Date & Time: Thursday, July 20
10 a.m. – 1 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
Many people enjoy feeding wild birds in America. Attracting our feathered friends to feeders outside our windows provides hours of fun in all seasons. When did people first embark upon this fun activity and why? What influenced the development of this multi-billion-dollar industry? We will discuss the cultural, natural and commercial impacts of feeding birds.

Instructor Bio:
Dr. Wulfhorst has a Ph.D. in Education Theory and Practice in Language, Literature and Reading from The Ohio State University. She enjoyed many years at Central Ohio Technical College both as a faculty member and an administrator. She is a valued faculty emeritus. Now she enjoys chocolate, traveling with husband Bob, bird watching, reading, and the LLI! Dr. Wulfhorst also serves as the chairwoman of the Curriculum Committee and on the Steering Committee for the LLI at COTC.
Presented by Tonia Osborn

Date & Time: Friday, July 28
10 a.m. – 3 p.m.
(break for lunch on your own, 12 p.m.-1 p.m.)

Location: COTC Newark campus 1219 University Drive, Newark, Ohio,
Warner Center platform, Room 126

About the Course:
This course introduces classical and contemporary mixed media techniques and concepts, with emphasis on understanding color theory, perspective, composition and method applications.
This class will cover all the basics and teach you how to lay-out a mixed media art piece, step-by-step and item-by-item.
You’ll learn about common materials and how each media within the piece interacts with the others. Demonstrations, slides, and historical context will be explored, while we will take the mania out of mixed media and help you get started creating art.

$40 per person course fee includes supplies. (Note: $40 fee is in addition to the traditional courses that are offered as part of the LLI Membership and/or as general LLI Course selections.)

Instructor Bio:
Tonia Bennington Osborn’s lifelong labor-of-love has been to explore and express through art, the miracles that make up her world. Tonia distinguished herself as a serious artist by age 11, when she received an award from the Young Author’s Guild for her work in illustrations. From there, her recognition and respect only grew. Her resume describes and defines a successful and meaningful career filled with prestigious honors and awards. Formally educated at Ohio State, the Columbus College of Art & Design, the Dayton Academy of Design, and Central Ohio Technical College, Tonia creates works in soft pastel, graphite, watercolor, acrylics and oils, with her favorite subjects being wildlife and portrait work. Her favorite medium is soft pastel on suede – an art form which she embraced and has been genuinely enriched through her own unique innovations and experiments.
Tonia’s work is displayed internationally at various galleries and with private collections.

Rhonda Rhodan, MA, LPCC
Melissa Terry

Date & Time: Wednesday, August 2
10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
On occasion, we may see or hear a brief comment in the news about the abuse, neglect or exploitation of an elderly person. Then the issue disappears; it is not a comfortable topic.

In this presentation, you will meet “the other first responders,” who spend their work days (and often their nights!);
helping our most vulnerable neighbors, friends and relatives. This is a well-hidden issue. The discussion by the presenters will bring to light some of the abuse, neglect and exploitation members of our community are experiencing.

Case scenarios will be shared.
Experiences and situations encountered by Adult Protective Services (APS) investigators will alert you to risk factors.
The knowledge gained in this session could bring awareness to a vulnerable member of your neighborhood. It may surprise you to know that abuse, neglect and exploitation occur in all economic levels, religions, races and ethnicities;
after all, abuse does not discriminate!
Scams and financial exploitation and the ever increasing manipulation of phone and email contacts are also on the rise.

Instructor Bio’s:
Sally Smith has been involved in the field of Social Work and Adult Protective Services for over nineteen years.
Currently, Sally is the APS Supervisor at the Franklin County Office on Aging.
Previously she served as Supervisor of Support Services at the Licking County Department of Job and Family Services.
She holds a Master’s degree in Social Work from Ohio State and a Bachelor’s degree in Social Work from Defiance College. Sally is a lead participant in the Franklin County Elder Abuse I-Team and the Ohio Coalition for Adult Protective Services.

Rhonda Rhodan, MA, LPCC is Supportive Services Supervisor at the Licking County Job and Family Services. Prior to coming to Ohio, Rhonda worked for the State of North Dakota Department of Human Services. Currently, Rhonda Serves as Co-Facilitator of a multidisciplinary team involved in the planning of comprehensive services to vulnerable adults who are abused, neglected or exploited.

Melissa Terry is a Social Worker in Adult Protective Services with Licking County Job and Family Services.
She is a “first responder” and investigates the calls that trigger an investigation of abuse, neglect or exploitation. Melissa earned her degree in Psychology from Ohio University and has over 20 years’ experience in the Social Work profession. She has worked as an investigator for Children’s Protective Services, and for the last seven years, she has worked exclusively with the elderly. Melissa is an active member of the Licking County Task Force on Aging, the Adult Protective Interdisciplinary Team, and the Ohio Coalition for Adult Protective Services.
Presented by Michael Mangus, Ph.D.

LLI member Victor Feldmiller enjoys a topic at LLI.
About the presenter:
Jim R. Wollard was born in Newark, Ohio in 1941. While attending public school, Jim and his father (a city policeman and later the county dog warden), hunted with coonhounds throughout Licking County. During their hours afield, his father’s tales of Ohio’s frontier days fascinated Jim and fostered a life-long passion for American history. The first person in his family to attend college, Jim earned a BA in history from Muskingum University and a Master of Arts and Ph.D. from The Ohio State University. After graduation, Jim worked in the private sector for a decade before his appointment as Director of Facilities Planning and Operations on the shared campus of Central Ohio Technical College and Ohio State Newark; a position he held until his retirement in December 2012.

Jim’s life-long determination to write historical fiction bore fruit with the publication of his first Ohio frontier novel, Thunder in the Valley, which won the 1996 Western Writers of America (WWA) Medicine Pipe Award for Best First Novel and the WWA’s Spur Award for best original paperback novel.

In the intervening years Jim published four additional Ohio frontier novels; plus, a western murder mystery set in 1891 Alamosa, Colorado; and two young adult novels featuring the adventures of high school boys and their redbone coonhounds (based on hunting and dog breeding experiences with his father).

Jim’s novel, “Raiding With Morgan,” centered on the 1863 Civil War invasion of Indiana and Ohio by 2,300 Confederate cavalrymen commanded by General John Hunt Morgan, the infamous Morgan’s Raiders. The book was published in the Spring of 2014. Jim’s Civil War novel, “Riding for The Flag,” is the story of three Chillicothe brothers from a family divided by the conflict, and was released in 2015. Jim is currently writing a Civil War novel featuring Hiram Berdan’s Federal sharpshooters, the feared Killers in Green Coats.

Jim and his wife, Nancy (a retired Licking County schoolteacher), have two sons, and four grandchildren. They reside atop the historic Dugway Hill in Newark, Ohio with Chuck, a Cavalier King Charles Spaniel.
Date & Time: Wednesday, August 16
1 p.m. – 3 p.m.

Location: The Ohio State University, 1090 Carmack Road, Columbus, OH

Directions: While the tour of the facility is free, visitors will be required to purchase a parking voucher from a kiosk in the parking lot. (It is recommended that individuals carpool and plan to arrive at least 15 minutes early to allow time to purchase parking before walking to the facility.) Note: To avoid costly parking fines, it is critical to purchase a parking voucher.

1) Take 315 to the Lane Avenue exit (a major exit for The Ohio State University). If coming from the South side of the city, turn left and proceed West. From the North, turn right onto Lane Ave.
2) Once on Lane Ave., pass Kenny Road, and take the next road, Carmack Road, to the left.
3) Once on Carmack Road, continue straight, past Arthur Adams Road, and through the 4 way stop and into the parking lot.
4) Park and pay at the kiosks located at the north end of the lot near the footbridge. With a parking pass, park in spaces marked WA, WB, WC, or VISITOR.
5) Proceed over footbridge and follow the path straight to the compound of buildings, where the Byrd Polar and Climate Research Center is the third building on the left.

Meet in the Auditorium (Room 240), on the second floor of Scott Hall. You will need to enter Scott Hall through Door #2 (each door is labeled) on the east side of the building and ascend the steps near the statue of Admiral Byrd.

About the Course:
The Byrd Polar and Climate Research Center (BPCRC) at The Ohio State University is recognized internationally as a leader in polar, alpine, and climate research. The Center is named in honor of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, America’s most famous polar explorer. There are ten research groups at BPCRC, along with a Library, Archival Program, the Polar Rock Repository, and a team of support staff. Research at the Center focuses on the role of cold regions in the Earth’s overall climate system, and encompasses geological sciences, geochemistry, glaciology, paleoclimatology, meteorology, remote sensing, ocean dynamics, and the history of polar exploration. This course will include an overview presentation, an explanation of the research groups; a brief history of the Center as an Ohio State institution; and a tour of the facility (including the clean rooms, ice core freezer, and polar rock repository).

Instructor Bio:
Jason Cervenec is the Education and Outreach Director for the Byrd Polar and Climate Research Center at The Ohio State University. The diverse outreach portfolio of the center reaches approximately 12,000 individuals annually and includes programs in cutting-edge science, science education, history, and the arts. Jason earned a B.S. in Biology and M.Ed. in Secondary Science Education from The Ohio State University and began his career as a high school science teacher where he taught for more than a decade. Notably, the most common request for information that Jason receives from the public is on climate change.
Coffee & Conversation
Presented by Neil L. Drobny Ph.D., ISSP, CSP
Date & Time: Friday, August 25
10 a.m. – 12 p.m.
Location: COTC Pataskala Campus,
8660 E. Broad St, Reynoldsburg, OH

About the Course:
Discover why sustainability is an important and growing driver of strategy in nearly all industrial and commercial business sectors around the world. The instructor will describe historical roots and then fast forward to economic, cultural, and political factors propelling businesses worldwide to adopt sustainable business practices. He will draw upon examples from global and local companies that support his courses at Ohio State and from several decades of consulting. He will also provide some thoughts about where sustainable principles and practices will take corporate leaders in the future.

Instructor Bio:
Neil began an academic career about 12 years ago after several decades of environmental consulting. He initially taught courses in corporate environmental strategy part-time in the MBA program at Ohio State. Those courses were eventually refocused on sustainable business practices, and a second set of courses was developed for undergraduates. In 2002, Ohio State launched a new campus-wide academic major in sustainability that included Neil’s undergraduate courses in sustainable business practices as core courses. Additionally, Neil was appointed the inaugural director of the program which has become the fastest growing major on campus. More recently he has undertaken development of the Sustainability Innovation Virtual Lab, which brings experiential learning in sustainability to Ohio State students. He received the 2013 Undergraduate Service Award from the Fisher College of Business at Ohio State.

Previously in his career, Neil served as executive director of two small recycling organizations. He founded and served as CEO of a regional environmental consulting firm, and he also worked at Battelle in Columbus.

Neil received his Bachelors and Masters degree from Dartmouth College and his PhD from The Ohio State University, all in Environmental Engineering. He is a Certified Sustainability Professional granted by the International Society of Sustainability Professionals.

LII members, including Willard House, register for a program.
